In the USA, around 200 million ¹illegal (legal) music downloads take place every year, in spite of laws to stop them. In the UK, the figure is about 100 million – the second highest in the world. The music industry complains that these downloads are ² (fair) to artists because they stop them earning money from their work. It is ³ (possible) to know exactly how much money artists and record companies are losing because many people who download illegally do not have any money to spend. However, one thing is ⁴ (certain): overall, the industry is earning a lot less than it earned a few years ago.

Record companies pay for adverts telling people that downloading music without paying is as ⁵ (acceptable) and ⁶ (honest) as stealing from a shop. If you're a ⁷ (loyal) fan, they suggest you buy a ⁸ (legal) version of a song or album from iTunes or another website. But the adverts are ⁹ (likely) to work because people see the music industry as rich and powerful compared to them. Most do not see sharing music online as ¹⁰ (responsible).

In fact, the number of illegal downloads is now going down, but that's not because of the warnings. For people who are ¹¹ (patient) to hear the latest tracks, streaming services like Spotify now offer a simple and ¹² (safe) way to enjoy them without the need for downloads at all.
