

The Knight and Princess

There once was a _____ who wore knee high boots and bright shiny armor. He would often _____ on the castle door at night to visit the princess. Every night around the same time, the princess would _____ the knight would be _____ soon. She liked when the _____ would visit and she found her _____ shaking every time he came. The knight felt the same too. His knees would shake, and he would get a _____ in his stomach because he would so nervous. After some time, the knight and princess both _____ they were meant for each other. They both got married and lived happily ever after!

knew	knocking	knees	know
knot	knight	knock	knight