

LA BOQUERIA

Fill in the gaps with the words from the table:

map	attraction	antiques	market	juice	delicacies
stalls	souvenir	locals	jewellery	lost

Dear Jane,

Greetings from hot and sunny Spain. Today we are visiting a fantastic city of Barcelona.

Right now, we are shopping at the Boqueria Market. It is one of the oldest markets of Barcelona and it is a popular tourist (1)_____. It is on La Rambla street. The (2)_____ is open Monday to Saturday from 8:00am to 8:30pm. There are more than 200 (3)_____ here, so it's easy to get (4)_____ without a (5)_____. You can find all sorts of things like clothes, (6)_____, books, (7)_____, or pottery. They also sell fruit, snacks, sausages, and other (8)_____. You can buy seafood and meat too. Spanish jamón is delicious! Of course, walking and seeing all this food makes you hungry. There are many restaurants where you can enjoy a great meal. At the moment, we are at the café. I am drinking fresh pineapple (9)_____ and eating a paella while Rosy is talking to (10)_____. They are speaking Spanish, so I don't understand much.

You should visit the Boqueria Market one day. I'm sure you will love it! By the way, I have a (11)_____ for you. What is it? It's a surprise.

See you soon,

Monica

