

Mixed conditionals

In the absence of any shops,

Without a police force,

Given a lack of public transport,

Unless public services were maintained,

Should all schools be closed,

If public hospitals hadn't been created,

rubbish would pile up on the streets.
education could no longer be taken for granted.
crime rates would increase dramatically.
people would be paying huge sums for healthcare.
consumers would have to adopt a different lifestyle.
bicycle shops might do substantially more business.
