The Kiwi – New Zealand's Bird

The kiwi is the national bird of New Zealand. It is about the size of a chicken and is usually brown or grey. It has got a long beak and a small round body. The kiwi has got very small wings, so it can't fly.

The kiwi has got many special abilities. It can smell very well. It comes out at night and uses its sense of smell to hunt for insects. Also, the kiwi has got very strong legs. It can run very fast and fight enemies with its sharp claws.

The kiwi is a very important bird to New Zealanders. In New Zealand you can see pictures of the kiwi on the country's stamps and on the flags of some cities and sports clubs. But today there are not many kiwis left. Because of this, New Zealanders are trying to protect this unique bird.
