

- 1 The only thing I really regret is, is not having had the courage to talk to a girl I met at a party last summer. I really liked her – she was very attractive – but I just wasn't brave enough to start a conversation. I wish I'd tried. I'm absolutely  we would have  well. Now it's too late – she's engaged to another guy!
- 2 At the  of sounding really negative, the one thing I really regret in my life is getting married. My sister said to me in the car on the way to the registry office, "Someone has to say to you that you really don't have to do this you know," and um, I ignored her because I thought, "What do you know? You're still single." But in fact the next day when I woke up I realized it was a terrible mistake, and I spent the next 15 years trying to  it. So, and I would never do it again. So that's probably my biggest regret.
- 4 When I was 15 I had a weekend job, um, in a supermarket – stocking  shelves and that kind of thing. My friend also worked there, and he persuaded me one day to help him  a carton of cigarettes, 200 cigarettes, from the stockroom. It was a crazy idea, and totally out of character for me to do something like that. I'd always been very honest until then. Anyway, the store manager found where we'd hidden the cigarettes – and he called the police. So when we came to work that evening the police were waiting for us. Although we  with just a warning – we were only kids – the police came to my house and talked to my mom. I felt so awful. But in the  run it was probably a good thing because it meant that I never, ever thought about stealing something again.
