READING

1. Read quickly and select the correct option.
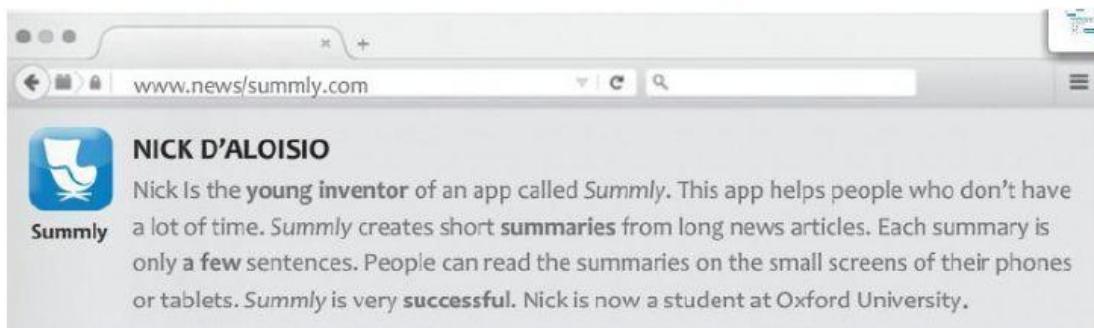

NICK D'ALOISIO

Nick Is the young inventor of an app called Summly. This app helps people who don't have a lot of time. Summly creates short summaries from long news articles. Each summary is only a few sentences. People can read the summaries on the small screens of their phones or tablets. Summly is very successful. Nick is now a student at Oxford University.

www.news/summly.com

1. What is Summly?
   A type of phone   /   an app

2. Who does Summly help?
   Children/ adults

3. What do people read?
   New articles / books and novels

2. Read again and select T (true) or F (false).

0. Nick's app helps people to organize their schedule.	T	(F)
1. The app summarizes information in school books.	T	F
2. Each summary is a few pages long.	T	F
3. People can use the app on tablets.	T	F
4. Nick is a university student.	T	F

3. Read and select the best summary of this article.

☐ Nick D'Aloisio is the inventor of Summly, a successful phone and tablet app.

☐ Nick D'Aloisio is a young inventor. He is the inventor of an app called Summly. Summly makes summaries of news articles for people who don't have a lot of time. It is very successful.

☐ Nick is the inventor of an app.

Guess What!
Good summaries are short, but they include the important information in a text. They don't include every detail.