1. Write the correct preposition "of", "to", "for":

Today Stan made a funfair ___ attract more tourists. But fake safety inspection certificates, that Stan asked us ___ put on the sky tram, won't help ___ solve safety problem. Today was very important day because I asked Wendy out. I was only afraid ___ Robby so I wanted ___ keep Wendy and Robby apart. Wendy. Mabel promised ___ help me but then she saw a pig and ran there ___ win it. It went well until Wendy saw a stuffed animal as a prize ___ winning the game and she wanted that prize. You could get that prize ___ knocking over the milk bottle. I threw a ball, it ricocheted and hit Wendy right into her eye. When I returned with the bag ___ ice, I crashed into some man. And when I managed ___ gather the ice, I came ___ see Robbie asking Wendy ___ go out with him. I spent the rest ___ the funfair disappointed until I saw that strange man again - Blendin Blandin. He was a time traveller! I immediately made a plan ___ correct my mistakes ___ the past. Blendin told me that time travelling device is too complicated ___ me, but I managed ___ steal it from him and use it. I tried ___ correct my mistake and win that stuffed animal many times. But this day was meant to be happy only ___ one of us, me or Mabel. When Mabel didn't win Waddles, we started to fight ___ the time machine. And accidentally we made a lot of time paradoxes, for example, Mabel told people ___ the past about future technologies. We even were in the Age ___ Dinosaurs ___ a few seconds. When Mabel didn't win Waddles as a result ___ my attempts ___ change the past, she became very sad. Finally I had to give up and let Mabel to get the pig and Wendy and Robby spent time together. But Waddles revenged on Robby ___ me and spilled some water on Robbies new jeans, making them too tight. So some events are impossible to change, but we still can have some fun.
