My name is Julie and I am going to tell you about our clothes project. Last week, my friends and I started a project for school. While we were talking about fashion, we started to think about people who haven't got enough clothes. We decided to send good clean clothes to people in other countries who really need them. We asked our friends and families to bring clothes to the school on Sunday mornings. In the basement of my house, I found lots of great clothes. I enjoyed looking in all our boxes. I found a blue tracksuit that I really liked wearing when I was young. There was also a pair of new trainers which my brother's never worn and a black raincoat which Mum doesn't need. Dad gave me some good belts and a few T-shirts which he doesn't wear anymore.

On Sunday morning, I took the clothes to the school. All my school friends brought some, too. Our teacher is going to send the clothes this week. She was really happy because we wanted to help other people. We shouldn't just think about buying things for ourselves. We should also think about how to help others around us.
