READING

Read the article and answer the questions.

Dear Marie,

I read your recent advice column about starting your own business, and I thought it was very interesting. I always wanted to start my own business, but I was too afraid to try. I know that starting a business is difficult, but after reading the advice from all the successful business people, I am determined to give it a try!

People say that I am really good at art. When I was a child, I loved to draw pictures for my family and friends. When it was someone's birthday, I always sent them a handmade card in the mail, and they often told me that it made them feel happy.

As I got older, my friends and family began asking me to create greeting cards for special events, like birthdays, weddings and graduations. In the last year, I have spent almost all of my free time making cards. There are art materials and cards all over my house! One day, while I was cooking in the kitchen, I spilled a little coconut oil on one of my cards. The card smelled like coconut, which is one of my favorite smells. Suddenly, I had an idea! Why don't I create cards that smell like different things?

I searched online and learned how to create different smells at home. Then I began trying to create them in my kitchen by carefully putting different oils together. Did you know that some smells can change how you feel or make you remember an experience from the past? Smells can even make you feel happy, sad or like a child again.

It wasn't easy to create these cards at first, but after a lot of practice, I became really good at it! Now, I can make cards that look like birthday cakes and smell like chocolate. I can make cards with pictures of the beach that smell like the ocean. I always share my new ideas with family and friends to get their opinions. Once, my mother told me that my coffee smell should be stronger, so I changed it. Now she keeps the card next to her bed, so her room smells like fresh coffee every morning. Sometimes they even ask me to create a special smell for one of their friends.

There was a piece of advice in your article that said that you can't succeed if you don't try. Because of your article, I think that I am finally ready to try selling my product!

Sincerely,

Pamela Johnson
