Mike Hello. Welcome to The Oxford Show. Our programme today is from Oxford Swimming Pool. Every day hundreds of people swim here. They have fun and play in the water. Look at them! Some people are swimming for exercise. Children are playing in the small pool. People are eating in the restaurant. Everyone is happy. But we are sometimes in danger when we swim and I want to talk to John Powell about water safety rules. John, you teach swimming here at the pool. What advice have you got?

John Hello everyone. Well, swimming is good for you and water is fun. But you must be careful. You mustn't swim after you eat. It's bad for you. You must never dive into the water on top of a swimmer in the pool. It is very dangerous.
