On October 31st, we celebrate Halloween. It is an autumn celebration. Children dress up as ghosts, monsters, witches, vampires and zombies and they go trick or treating. Many adults buy candy and sweets and give them to the children when they come. We take pumpkins or turnips and we make them into jack o' lanterns. Halloween is an ancient celebration. It used to be called Samhain. People lit bonfires and dressed up in scary costumes to keep the ghosts away. Nowadays, people think Halloween is fun, a chance to have a party. It is very popular in Canada and the United States. On Halloween, people tell ghost stories and they watch horror movies. Some people visit 'haunted' castles.
