A boy I like has invited me to a party at his house, but I don't want to go because I don't like his friends. How can I say no without upsetting him?

1

I'm really upset because my girlfriend has agreed to go to the school party with my best friend. I don't understand why she has done this. We've been going out for two weeks.

2

My best friend told me yesterday she doesn't want to be my friend any more because I don't wear fashionable clothes. I'm really upset. What should I do?

3

I'm furious because my parents won't let me go out with my friends in the school week. My friends' parents let them go. What right do my parents have to make me stay at home?

4

There's a boy in our class who's always noisy and disturbs the lessons. He took my book and copied my homework the other day. He's done that to other students too.

5

I found a lot of money in my sister's bedroom when I was helping her clean in there. She was very angry when I asked her where she got it. I'm worried that she could be stealing it from our parents. She told me not to tell them about it.

- A. This is a difficult one. Perhaps she's saving for a special present for them. She could have a weekend job. Try talking to her again.
- B. You haven't been together very long. Maybe she thinks you're just friends. Try talking to her.
- C. He's obviously got some problems if he is acting in this way. Talk to your teacher about how it's affecting all of you and see if he can find a solution.
- D. They're only worried about you and want to keep you safe and make sure you do well at school. You should respect their decision.
- E. Is she really a friend if she's only interested in how you look? She can't be a very good friend.
- F. ~~I don't like telling lies, but maybe just say you've got a family party that evening and can't go.~~
