How to be healthy in this technological era

Can you do more if you wake up early every morning? My friends do a lot every day. They often get up very early to clean the house. With a clean house, they go out for a walk with friends. Those friends are always very positive because they walk a lot and don't wear headphones because it can be dangerous in traffic. They talk to each other instead.

They keep their documents and files organized and all in one room. They never leave their books and notes everywhere around the house. They connect their computer to the outlet, but keep it turned off when they don't need it. While they do the housework, the dishes or make the beds, they listen to lively music on loudspeakers and dance around the house. It makes the time pass quickly and they sometimes sing to their favorite songs.

They never use the internet or their headphones on Sundays. They always make plans to keep this day free for friends and family.

I don't feel very healthy. So, maybe it is time to throw away my headphones!
