GREAT 20TH-CENTURY ACTORS

Roscoe Lee Browne

Roscoe Lee Browne is a large man with a pleasant, friendly face. He has worked in the theater and also in movies and TV. He can play many different people – good, bad, happy or sad. He was born in 1925 in New Jersey. After school, he studied at Lincoln University, where he taught French before becoming an actor. When he was a student, he was excellent at running. In 1951, he won an important 800-meter race in Paris.

Peter Ustinov

Peter Ustinov's father was Russian and his mother was French, but Peter was born in England. He went to an expensive school, but he was not happy there. He quit at 16 and joined the London Theater Studio. Two years later, he got his first acting job. After that, he was in many plays and movies, but he also found time to write stories, to travel and to paint.

Ed Wynn

Ed Wynn was a star in the theater first and then moved to TV and radio shows. Later, he also acted in movies. Many people remember his name because he knew how to make them laugh. He was born in Pennsylvania and went to school there. His father had a hat store and Ed liked to put the hats on and make the customers laugh. Ed's father told him not to become an actor, but Ed always knew it was what he wanted to be.
