3rd YEAR Sample Test Campus 2020

Exam Duration: 1 hour 15 minutes

PART I: READING

A. Read the passage and answer the questions.

It's a small world in Tiny Kitchen

How do you learn to cook? For some of us, cooking videos with famous chefs is the way to go. We enjoy watching them because it's easier to follow instructions when we can see what's happening. But now, a new cooking series is becoming very popular. Tiny Kitchen is a series of short videos. They show how to cook real meals in kitchens the same size as those in doll's houses. The idea comes from Japan and Kate Murdoch is one Tiny Kitchen chef with a lot of teen fans.

Kate first became famous when she made a video of some tiny cupcakes, but she has never trained as a chef. She and her brother work well together making the videos. Kate cooks the food and her brother films it. It all happens in the family kitchen.

The videos take a long time to make. It can take three hours to film a ninety-second clip. The Vegetable Curry and Rice video is only forty seconds long and has no words to it. If you watch it, you'll see the very small knives and spoons Kate uses. It's hard to believe that more than 240,000 people have shared the video.

So, why do teens love these tiny food videos? Firstly, they can get ideas from the videos. They're also short and most teens don't want to watch long videos. But Kate thinks teens just enjoy watching them. So, are tiny dishes the way of the future? Maybe, but if you eat them, you won't be very full!
