When it comes to 1 _____ (USE) talents, diplomacy perhaps isn't one of this beauty queen's strong points. Jean-Sun Hannah Ahn, 22, was crowned Miss Seattle on Saturday but unfortunately her new-found celebrity led to some 2 _____ (OFFENSE) comments about her home town being dug up from her Twitter account. The student, who attended Arizona State University, tweeted in December, 'Ew, I seriously am hating Seattle right now.' Another post added, 'Ugh can't stand cold, 3 _____ (RAIN) Seattle and the annoying people.' However, Miss Ahn said she was just complaining about the 4 _____ (DISAGREE) weather, like any Seattle resident, and didn't mean that people in the city were annoying. She told a 5 _____ (REGION) radio station that she made the 6 _____ (HURT) remarks while in a transition period three months ago when she was missing friends and Arizona's 7 _____ (SUN) climate. She apologised and said that she hadn't given 8 _____ (CARE) thought to her tweets and that any offense caused was not 9 _____ (INTENTION). The 10 _____ (REGRET) mistake appears to have taught the beauty queen a 11 _____ (VALUE) lesson in public relations. She tweeted today, 'I really do love Seattle ... the summers are to die for.'
