

Malala's father, Ziauddin, believed in equal education for his daughter.

Malala did not stop advocating for the right to education even after being attacked.

Malala became the youngest recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize at the age of 17.

Malala did not remain silent in the face of the Taliban's attempt to suppress education.

Malala was shot by a Taliban gunman.

Malala's story did not have a direct impact on education and gender equality globally.

AFFIRMATIVE SENTENCES

VS

NEGATIVE SENTENCES

