Renting clothes

If you've been reading my blog, you'll know that I love clothes. Well, I've just read about some new services, which would let me try on different clothes every day!

There are several services now that let people rent clothes. And I'm not talking about clothes that have worn out, and nobody wants any more. I'm talking about all the latest designer brands.

This is how it works. You go online, and pick out a great long-sleeved dress, a hat or lovely high-heeled boots. You can find something that not only fits you, but goes with everything else you have. You type in how long you'd like to have it for and soon, a driver brings it to your door! When you've finished using it, you don't even have to wash it. You just send it back!

Now, this has lots of advantages. It's far cheaper to rent clothes than to buy them. Also, I don't have to worry about keeping lots of outfits in my bedroom. In fact, I read that a lot of people don't even use about 80% of the clothes they hang up in their wardrobes. So, renting clothes, on a pay-as-you-go basis, is a great idea. Soon, I think owning clothes will go out of fashion!

There are disadvantages, too. I'm not really worried about wearing clothes that other people have been wearing. I often buy old, second-hand clothes from a charity shop – I'm wearing a great pair of baggy trousers right now that I bought there last week and I don't think they will ever go out of fashion. So sharing clothes with other people isn't a big problem for me. But one problem is that traditional high-street clothes stores might go out of business. Why is that a problem? Well, because sometimes, I prefer to go to a shop and touch clothes. I like to try them on and discover new things that I've never thought of wearing before.
