

POLKAN

When I was at school, our teacher had a dig dog, whose name was Polkan. Once we were looking into the window and saw little pet dog came up to Polkan and began barking at him. It jumped and tried to bite Polkan's pads.

Then I said, "Wait for a moment, little dog, Polkan will punish you for your silliness, unless you stop attacking him".

We continued to watch them over for some time. However, Polkan didn't even moved, it was not angry and calmly beard the bites and attacks of little dog.

When I turned back, I saw our teacher. He was standing behind us and heard what I had said.

"You see," he said addressing to me, "Polkan's got much more kind hear than you do. If you play with boys smaller than you, it always ends up with you offending somebody or making them cry. Polkan, though he is a dog, is ashamed of hurting those who are smaller and weaker than he is. This is why he didn't touch this little dog."
