Quantifier: Some, Any, No, None

Fill in the blanks with some, any, none or no.

Grammar rules

Use some in affirmative sentences. If it is followed by a plural noun, the verb should be plural. If it is followed by an uncountable noun, the verb should be singular.

Use any in questions and negatives. If it is followed by a plural noun, the verb should be plural. If it is followed by an uncountable noun, the verb should be singular.

None is usually followed by a singular verb.

1. I rang the doorbell twice but there was .... response.

2. You can use .... vegetable oil to cook this dish.

3. .... of my friends smokes.

4. I didn't receive .... help from them.

5. I offered her .... food as she said that she was hungry.

6. She hasn't got .... children.

7. I have got .... letters for you.

8. 'Have you got .... letters for me?' 'No. There is ....'

9. .... of my sisters lives near me.

10. .... of these answers is correct.

11. I haven't read .... of these books.

12. .... people believe that death penalty should be abolished.