Listening

listening for days, times and numbers; gap fill

1 Read the Exam Reminder. How do you hear the number '0' in a conversation?

Exam REMINDER

Listening for days, times and numbers

In a gap-fill task, you can listen twice. The first time, listen and answer as many questions as possible. When you listen again, check your answers and answer the rest of the questions.

- Read all the text to understand the general meaning.
- Gaps are often a missing number, day or time.
- Remember that we say the number 0 as 'zero' or 'oh'.
- Remember that when we give a phone number, we say each number separately. When there are two of the same number together, e.g. 44, we say 'double four'.

2 6.1 Listen and complete the Exam Task.
