Read the following passage. Then answer the questions below.

A memoir focuses on past events that are meaningful to the author. It reveals the author's thoughts and feelings about past events. It is told from the first-person point of view, with pronouns such as I, me, and my. It may address readers as you as if conversing with them.

Mississippi Solo narrates the author exciting trip on the Mississippi River. The journey started well. The weather was cool that the author had the feeling that the river is his friend. After some time, a storm started. The storm got stronger, and threw the boat onto the land among the bending trees. The author held a big, strong tree with both hands to survive. Water came into his boat and around him, but he didn't panic. He felt that he is part of nature. This feeling helped the author make the right decisions in the roaring atmosphere and stay alive.
