Bob learns a lesson

Bob Bear was the richest animal in the forest but he was very mean. He never shared. When his poorer neighbours came to his cave and begged for food, he shouted, 'Go away! It's MY food!'

One day Sally Squirrel had a birthday party. Bob was not invited but he saw Sally's friends give her a lot of nice presents. 'I'd like some presents,' thought Bob so he decided to have a party. He went to a shop. 'I need some party food,' he told the shop assistant. 'How much is a large bunch of bananas?'

'It's twenty-five dollars fifty,' she said. Bob was shocked. 'That's too expensive. How much is a jar of honey?'

'A jar of Pure Honey is twenty-eight dollars thirty,' said the shop assistant. 'A jar of Organic Honey is more expensive …' Bob held up his paw. 'I want the cheapest food,' he said. The shop assistant gave him two black bananas and a small packet of raisins. 'Good! These are cheap,' Bob smiled. 'They only cost eleven dollars thirty.'

At the party Bob opened his presents — two loaves of bread, a tin of sardines and five cartons of blackcurrant juice. 'These are not birthday presents!' he growled.

'We know you don't like sharing so we were afraid there wouldn't be enough food. That's why we brought food,' said Fred Fox. 'We are happy to share all we have with you because we want to be friends.' Bob's face went red. 'I'm sorry,' he said. 'Let's share this lovely food together, my friends.' From then on, Bob was never mean again.
