Live cobra heart it hasn't been a common thing to eat but some people in Vietnam usually do it. If that wasn't bad enough, you should know that the Vietnamese have eaten live cobra's heart raw and uncooked. And to top it all off, the only 'preparation' to this dish is that they wash the cobra's heart with the cobra's blood! Takes bizarre to a whole new level, doesn't it?

Have you ever known that exist a plate in which you can eat bear claws! This bear claw stew has been a Chinese delicacy and costs a bomb. It has been said to improve health, which is why people burn a hole in their pockets and eat this. But this delicacy is facing some trouble today, as animal rights activists protest against the apparent torture of bears before slaughter and cooking.

Century eggs or millennium eggs has been recognized as a typical Chinese dish in which the eggs of quail, chicken, and duck are covered in ashes, clay salt and preserved for months together. The insides of the egg decompose and form a greenish jelly-like mixture which is then served straight on your plate. Their taste is extremely strong but the dish is has been well liked in China.
