

1. Join the phrases in order to form complete sentences.

a) I won't worry

b) Provided you call me in advance,

c) Students may leave the exam early

d) Suppose we offered you more money,

e) Supposing they don't arrive on time,

f) You'll have to lend me your laptop.

g) I'm going to sell the car,

Otherwise, I won't be able to finish my assignment.

what will you do?

whether you agree or not.

I'll pick you up.

So long as they have completed each section of the paper.

as long as you're home on time.

would you agree to stay?

2. Complete some uses for the previous sentences.

Write the letter of the sentences.

a) This conditional is used as an alternative to IF NOT.

b) They are used as alternatives in first conditional sentences.

c) They are used to imagine two possible and unlikely conditions.

d) It is used to refer to two possibilities at the same time.

e) It is used to emphasize that one action occurs before another.

3. Rewrite the sentences using alternatives to IF (otherwise, provided, so long as, as long as, whether or not, suppose and supposing)

- a) Make sure you fill out this form. If not, you won't get paid.
- b) If you agree or not, I'm not going to talk to Karl again.
- c) If we watch our expenses, we'll be able to save money.
- d) Will you be OK if they go on vacation without you?
- e) If you found a wallet on the street, would you keep it or give it to the police?
- f) You could leave the table if you eat up all the vegetables.