

Aladdin and The Magic Lamp

Once upon a time, there lived a handsome boy in Baghdad. The name was Aladdin. He was a clever boy, but he did not like to work.

One day Aladdin's mother sent him to place to look for a job. In the market he met a magician. The magician asked him to work together with him. If Aladdin could do, he would get and jewellery. The magician asked Aladdin to go inside and find a magical lamp there. He also gave a ring and said, "If you are in any trouble, rub this ring and a genie will come to your rescue!"

Aladdin went into the cave. Inside the cave, Aladdin was surprised by what he saw. Every corner was full of gold and treasures. A few minutes later, he found the lamp and quickly returned to of the cave.

Aladdin called out, "Magician, I have found the lamp."

"Excellent," answered

"Quick, pass it to me!" Aladdin did not trust the magician so he said, "Not so fast Magician. You must help me out of this cave first."

The magician became very angry. When Aladdin was walking to the entrance, the magician pushed over the entrance of the cave and left Aladdin and the lamp behind. Aladdin tried to move the rock all by himself, but it was too big and heavy, "Oh no! I am trapped in the cave!" he cried.

Suddenly, he remembered the magic ring. He rubbed it with the palm of his hand. To his surprise, a genie appeared before him and in said, "Master, I am the Genie of the ring. How can I help you?"

Aladdin was frightened, but he soon found the courage to ask, "Could you please send me back to my house?" In no time at all Aladdin was back home.

Aladdin the lamp. He wondered what would happen if he rubbed it. As Aladdin was rubbing it, all of a sudden another enormous genie stood before him. The genie of the lamp said, "Master, your wish is my command." Aladdin was very excited and wished for and bags full of gold.

One day, was passing by Aladdin's palace. She stopped to talk to Aladdin and soon they became good friends. Before long, she married Aladdin and lived happily.
