B. Writing.

Imagine you are planning a day out with your family. Write a paragraph (about 5-7 sentences) describing your plans for the day. Use the first conditional to talk about what you will do if certain situations or conditions arise during your day out. See example below.

"I'm looking forward to our day out with my family this weekend. If the weather is nice, we will have a picnic at the beach. If it starts to rain, we'll find a shelter in the nearest building. If we get hungry, we'll order some fried noodles, but if there's a food truck, we might try some street food. If we have time, we could rent electrical bike and explore the beach. If it gets dark, we'll go home"
