Me and my café

I'm Julia Chambers and I'm a chef. I own the Creative Cooking Café. I love my job and think working here is fun and interesting. My customers like my creative cooking style! My café is next to Colchester Hospital so many of my customers are doctors, nurses and dentists. They like to try something different, like my recipe for chicken with coconut and lime. The businesswomen and businessmen from nearby offices are easy to please. They love my salads and say my apple pie is delicious. But some of the café's visitors prefer uncreative food. My friend Molly is an artist, and she comes here every day and says to the waiter, 'Tell Julia I don't want her creative food. Give me a plate of egg and chips!' Everyone is welcome at the Creative Cooking Café, so if you want to find out what's on the menu, please stop by!

A surprise rescue!

Many people think firefighters only fight fires, but we do a lot more! Every day is different in our job. Some days are more exciting and more dangerous than others, but today something funny happened. We answered a call from a worried neighbour. When we arrived, we found a little boy sitting at the top of a tree looking very unhappy. The neighbour was below the tree and shouted up, 'Don't worry, Jake! The firefighters are here!' We got out our ladder and I climbed up to the boy. I asked him, 'What are you doing up here?' He looked at me sadly and said, 'I came up to rescue my kitten. It was stuck in the tree.' 'Oh,' I said. 'And where is your kitten now?' The boy pointed to a little grey kitten sitting by the front door of the house. 'Well,' I smiled, 'I think you could be a good firefighter one day, but you need to learn to climb big trees!' The little boy laughed and I carried him down to his mother.
