What is needed now is a national educational program for women who seriously want to continue or resume their education, which they have had to cut short for reasons resulting from having to conform to the role of the woman. They must of course be willing to commit themselves to its use in a profession. The federal government should be prepared to provide properly qualified women with tuition fees, plus an additional subsidy to defray other expenses, such as books, travel, even, if necessary, some household help. It would permit mothers to use existing educational facilities on a part-time basis and carry on individual study and research projects at home during the years regular classroom attendance is impossible. The whole concept of women's education would be regeared from four-year-college to a life plan under which a woman could continue her education, without conflict with her marriage, her husband and her children. Women who have matured during the housewife moratorium need education to find their identity as individual people, not just as "a woman", in society. Their desperate need for education and the desperate need of the nation for the almost untapped reserves of these women's intelligence and ability in all professions justify a new, national program especially for married women.

Read and choose the correct answer to each of the questions.

Between 1977 and 1981, three groups of American women, numbering 27 in all, between the ages of 35 and 65, were given month-long tests to determine how they would respond to conditions resembling those aboard the space shuttle. Though carefully selected from among many applicants, the women were volunteers and pay was barely above the minimum wage. They were not allowed to smoke and drink alcohol during the tests.

Among other things, they had to stand pressure three times, the force of gravity and carry out both physical and mental tasks while exhausted from strenuous physical exercise. At the end of ten days, they had to spend a further twenty days absolutely confined to bed, during the time they suffered backaches and other discomforts.

Results of the tests suggest that women will have significant advantages over men in space. They need less food and less oxygen and they stand up to radiation better. Men's advantages in terms of strength and stamina, meanwhile, are virtually wiped out by the zero-gravity condition in space.

66. Which of the following can be inferred from the passage?

- A. The tests were not carried out aboard the space shuttle.
- B. The women involved had had previous physical fitness training.
- C. The women were tested once a year from 1977 to 1981.
- D. The tests were carried out on women of all ages.

67. Which would be the most suitable title for the passage ?

- A. Older women, too, can travel in space.
- B. Space testing causes backache in women.

C. Poor wages for women space test volunteers.

D. Tests show women suited for space travel.

68. What can be said about the women who applied ?

- A. There were 27 in all
- B. They were anxious to give up either smoking or drinking.
- C. They had previously earned the minimum wage.
- D. They chose to participate in the test.

69. Which of the following is not mentioned in the passage ?

- A. Smoking and drinking alcohol were forbidden.
- B. Tests were carried out aboard the space shuttle.
- C. The women had to lie in bed for twenty days during the test.
- D. Men have less advantages than women in space.

70. The physical advantages men enjoy in normal conditions are counteracted by _____.

- A. conditioning
- B. virtue
- C. zero gravity
- D. food and oxygen
