The Selfish Giant

Winter came, and the garden was covered in snow. The giant felt lonely and sad, regretting his selfishness. He realized that his beautiful garden had become desolate and lifeless.
The giant felt a profound change within himself. He decided to tear down the wall and open his garden to the children. They returned, and the giant was happy to share his beautiful garden with them.
One day, the giant returned home and found a little boy in his garden. The giant was furious and chased the boy away. The other children, seeing the giant's anger, also fled from the garden.
The next morning, the giant saw that the garden had blossomed with beautiful flowers and greenery. He noticed the little boy among the flowers, who turned out to be the Christ Child. The giant was filled with remorse for his unkindness.
Once upon a time, there was a giant who lived in a beautiful garden. The giant loved his garden and wanted it all to himself. He built a high wall around it to keep the children out.
The giant approached the boy and asked for forgiveness. The Christ Child forgave him and granted the giant a special blessing. From that day on, the giant's garden became a place of joy and warmth for all the children.
