Definition of Descriptive Text

A descriptive text is a type of writing that describes a person, place, thing, or event with vivid detail, allowing the reader to form a clear mental image. It uses sensory language to paint a picture in the reader's mind, creating a lasting impression.

On the right side of the slide, there is a diagram titled 'The Rhetorical Situation' represented by three overlapping circles: 'Writer', 'Subject', and 'Audience'. The 'Writer' circle is at the top, 'Subject' is at the bottom left, and 'Audience' is at the bottom right. The overlapping areas are labeled: 'why the writer is writing about this subject' (between Writer and Subject), 'what the writer is seeking from the audience' (between Writer and Audience), and 'how the subject is presented to the audience' (between Subject and Audience). The 'TEXT' word is placed in the center where all three circles overlap.
