Valentine's Day

★ ALL STARS ★

Watch the reel on our Instagram account and pay attention to the following structures:

Argentine people are the most friendly and loving people on the planet.

...making others feel like they are part of our family or group of closest friends.

What other country is more loving than Argentina?

We know we are the best friends and the best lovers, too!

What do you notice about these sentences? Do you know what they mean?

COMPARATIVES AND SUPERLATIVES!

Argentine people are more loving than English people.

We compare one country with another.

Argentines are the most loving people.

We say one country is the most loving (for example) in the world!

For doing this we need to follow the structures and the rules!

Argentine people are more loving than English people.

subject adjective object

we add the word more + adjective and the word than to compare the subject with an object.

French are more elegant than German.

She is more beautiful than he.

These flowers are more colorful than the other ones.

Argentines are the most loving people.

subject adjective

we add the word most with the article the + adjective to compare the subject meaning is superior in the world.

French are the most elegant.

She is the most beautiful girl at the school.

These flowers are the most colorful of the garden

TO BE CONTINUED...

LIVEWORKSHEETS