

Assessment Week - Manneken Pis

Writing Practice.

The Manneken Pis

taken from: full suitcase

The Manneken Pis is a famous landmark in Brussels. It is a small statue of a boy urinating in a fountain.

This iconic boy has a unique wardrobe. You cannot tell it is not dressed up for the occasion.

Let's take a look!

Outfit one!

January 27th, 2006. - celebrating the 250th birthday of Amadeus Mozart.

The Manneken Pis is wearing a white wig.
A red coat. Black pants and black shoes.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Assessment Week - Manneken Pis

Ok! Let's check some other outfits!

Outfit 2!

May 4th, 2004 - The statue is dressed as a pilot as Brussels Airlines joined the Global Star Alliance.

What is he wearing?

Outfit 3!

July 3rd, 2010. The statue wears a yellow jersey as it is revealed that the Tour of France route will cross Brussels.

What is he wearing?

Violet Boughgouhnon

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Assessment Week - Manneken Pis

Outfit 4!

March 28th, 2003 - The statue wears a CND T-shirt and a 'not in my name' placard to protest against the invasion of Iraq.

What is he wearing?

Outfit 5!

August 16th, 1999. - the statue is dressed as Elvis Presley to mark the 19th anniversary of his death.

What is he wearing?

Taken from:
https://www.telegraph.co.uk/travel/picturegalleries/8550757/Manneken-Pis-costumes-worn-by-the-statue-of-the-urinating-toddler-in-Brussels.html

LIVEWORKSHEETS