Questions 153-155 refer to the following information from a manual.

Using the RoadRunner Sedan 12's dashboard has never been easier. As with last year's model, the car features an innovative touch screen interface that allows you to control various operations. — [1] —. These include playing music, finding your way with a Global Positioning System (GPS), talking on a speaker-phone, controlling the temperature, and much more. The first time you put the keys in the ignition, the interface will appear and prompt you to select a language. Once you have done this, you are free to use the system.

Each feature of the interface is represented by an icon. For example, to access the GPS, simply press the map icon. This will bring up a digital map with several buttons. Simply type in your destination or say it out loud, and several routes will be suggested. — [2] —. To access other functions, press "MENU" or hit the back arrow to return to the main page.

To connect your mobile phone or any other device to the dashboard, plug one end of a USB cable to the device and the other to the car's USB port. — [3] —. Once it is inserted, a message reading "DEVICE FOUND" should appear. If you want to play music, simply select the song on your device and hit "PLAY."

Please note that the dashboard and all functions switch off automatically when the vehicle's ignition has been turned off. — [4] —. This is done to prevent the car's battery from losing power.

153. According to the manual, what can the dashboard interface do?

- (A) Display fuel consumption
- (B) Give driving directions
- (C) Read the outside temperature
- (D) Provide parking assistance

154. What does the manual say about connecting a cell phone?

- (A) It may take a few minutes to set up.
- (B) It may be incompatible with some models.
- (C) It is a feature that costs extra.
- (D) It requires the use of a cable.

155. In which of the positions marked [1], [2], [3], and [4] does the following sentence best belong?

"Select your preferred path from the choices provided."

Questions 160-162 refer to the following article.

Restructuring in Preparation for Farnsworth Capital Bank

The government has approved the merger between Capital Status Bank and Farnsworth Regional Bank. Both banks have exhibited average profitability when compared to other financial institutions, and each bank has strengths that the other does not. The combined board of directors of the new institution, Farnsworth Capital Bank, expects profitability to start improving in about five years.

Bob Altman from Capital Status Bank has been selected to be the chief executive officer of the new organization, and Emily Carter from Farnsworth Regional Bank will serve as the chief financial officer. The board of directors has not yet appointed a chairman, but spokesperson Ryan Salazar has stated that someone from outside both organizations will be hired.

Mr. Altman said that because of the region's rapid growth, employee layoffs will be kept to a minimum. Instead, some employees may be asked to move to a new location or accept a different position. No changes are expected in regard to the number of bank branches serving customers. As for where the new headquarters will be located, details have yet to be announced.

160. What is the article mainly about?

- (A) The profitability of a new venture
- (B) A consolidation of two firms
- (C) The effect of a government regulation
- (D) An industry's long-term outlook

161. What is indicated about Farnsworth Capital Bank?

- (A) It plans to move its headquarters to a new city.
- (B) It will keep wages at current levels.
- (C) It is not expected to earn more money right away.
- (D) It will reduce the size of its branch network.

162. What is NOT mentioned about the merger?

- (A) The number of bank branches will not change.
- (B) Staff may be requested to fill different roles.
- (C) Some employees will transfer to other offices.
- (D) It will have been completed before the new year.

John Mallet [3:45 P.M.] Hi, everyone. You'll be happy to know that management gave me approval to send some of our people to the career fair at Duluth University next month.

Janet Chan [3:48 P.M.] That's excellent news. A lot of students have probably heard of our company, since Go-C Tech is such a short distance from the campus.

John Mallet [3:52 P.M.] Exactly, however, our budget is limited, so we need to decide which departments should be represented. We can't send everyone.

Melissa Kovac [3:55 P.M.] My marketing team recruited quite a few new people just last month. You can leave me out.

John Mallet [4:00 P.M.] I'll keep that in mind. And I think the accounting department should participate. Management feels that they will need more help when our purchase of Stanfield Incorporated moves forward. I'll speak to Susan Edwards about it.

Peter Mercer [4:01 P.M.] I need to supervise product testing in the research and development department for the next few months. Can I send someone in my place?

John Mallet [4:03 P.M.] Of course. Who do you choose, Peter?

Peter Mercer [4:05 P.M.] Amy Lintan. She doesn't have a lot of experience, but she's quite knowledgeable about our department's needs.

John Mallet [4:08 P.M.] That's fine. Perhaps someone who has been employed for a shorter time can provide a valuable perspective on what it is like to join our company.
