

COOPERATION

We are all a part of a big family called the Body of Christ. Each person is a different part of a body. If you are the hand, you might take care of a sick person. If you are the foot, you might be the one who goes to another country and tell people about Jesus. Even though we all do different things, we work together. That's called cooperation.

Choose the examples of cooperation that you can do in your everyday life.

fighting for a jump rope	sharing a cookie	grabbing a book a friend is reading	stirring and baking homemade cookies with a friend helping a friend learn to ride a bike	stealing a friend's pencil	cleaning the bathroom for your mom or dad	hitting your sister or brother telling friends they can't be on your team	helping sound out the hard words for a friend	making noises so your teacher can not be heard	lending an eraser to a classmate untangling a set of earphones at a listening center	throwing food at a classmate in the lunchroom	babysitting a younger brother or sister	calling a classmate a mean name poking someone in line with a pencil	feeding your dog or cat so they stay healthy	hiding a friend's homework	helping a friend know how to spell a word
