La Tomatina

Some festivals are based on the changes to the sun, moon, stars, and sky, but this is a food festival in a town called Bunol in Spain. It attracts visitors from around the world. Don't forget to book your ticket and expect a lot of mess!

The highlight of this festival is a big tomato fight!

There is a siren or horn at the beginning, and only then can people start throwing the tomatoes. This happens for an hour and then you hear the siren again. By then, everyone and everything is covered in tomatoes. Even the stores in the street are covered in tomatoes, and many store owners cover their stores in big plastic covers. The festival is now an official event. Many people believe the festival started after a real fight between young locals, involving tomatoes, happened many years ago. But no one is 100% sure if this is true.

There are some important rules and advice: Squash the tomatoes before you throw them! When you hear the siren, you must stop throwing the tomatoes. Wear old clothes. Enjoy!
