Part-time jobs

Helena

I have a part-time job in a café in the city centre. I work there every Saturday from 9.00 to 5.00 and I have worked there every week for almost a year. I like working there – the customers are really friendly and they always ask how I am. We get to eat the café's food for lunch – it's all delicious. My favourite is the cheese sandwiches with chips! When I'm older, I'd like to have my own café.

Katja

I have worked in the local supermarket since last summer now and I really enjoy it. I work two evenings a week and a full day on either Saturday or Sunday. Saturdays are the best day for me to work so I can go out with my friends after work and have a rest the day after. It's often very busy at work so the time goes quickly. I prefer it when I'm busy.

Paula

I've got a part-time job in a gift shop. It sells cards and birthday presents and it also has presents for days like Mother's Day. I've worked there for two years and get on well with the other staff. I work on Saturdays, but in the summer holidays I work on some days during the week as well. We sometimes get people asking what to buy for their family – I like giving them ideas. It's a great job!

Part 3

For each question, choose the correct answer.

Joe Brown: being a writer

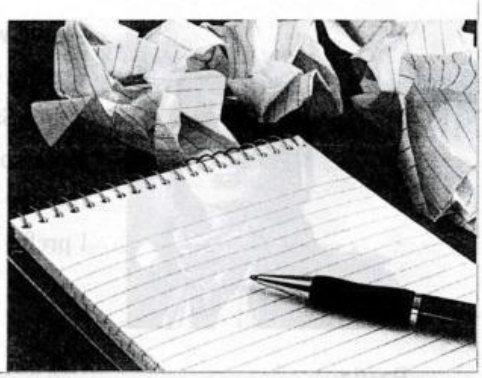

I wrote my first stories when I was about 12, but I really didn't know how good they were. My friends weren't interested, but my teacher sent some of them to a national magazine for children. The magazine didn't want them, but then my mum heard about a competition while she was listening to the radio. So I sent in one of my stories and it won first prize! Then I thought, 'I can do this'.

During my years at school, I continued writing when I had time. Then when I left school, I went to university. I didn't study writing – I studied French and Spanish. After university, I worked in a bookshop and in a library, but I wanted to write again. I decided to move to France.

At first, I worked as a waiter. I worked every day except Sunday. I wrote my novel on Sundays and in the evenings!

I love writing and I'm never bored. You spend a lot of time alone, but this isn't a problem for me. I've finished my second novel now and I've got ideas for another, but I wanted a break first so I've come home to England for a while.

My parents live in London, I have a brother in Liverpool and my sister lives in a village in the countryside. I'm staying with my parents, but this weekend, we're all going to go to my sister's house to have a family party.
