Multicultural cities

The world is a wonderful combination of many cultures. To me, the best things about travelling are seeing different places, tasting differrent foods and meeting different people. If you're looking for the best multicultural experience, visit one of the places on our list. Each of these places is a city of the world, but also have a world inside the city.

Toronto: This city is in Canada and it is one of the most multicultural city in the world. There are almost two hundred different cultural groups in this city of almost three million people. One interesting thing about Toronto are the little international neighborhoods, like Chinatown, Greek town, Little Italy and Little India. Each of these areas has its own shops and restaurants and even the street signs are in different languages!

Amsterdam: This beautiful city in Netherlands is famous for being an international place. Amsterdam is a very open city and it welcomes people from all over the world. It's home to people of 178 different nationalities so you can hear many different languages on the streets. If you can't speak Dutch, there are opportunities for free classes to help you. Amsterdam also has many cultural evants during the year.

Sau Paolo: Sau Paolo, in the south of Brazil, is one of the most multicultural cities in South America. Brazil has a rich history and its people have origins all over the world. In Sau Paolo, there are influences from different continents: South America, Europe, Africa and Asia. I recommended the Italian neighborhood of the city in Bela Vista, or the Japanese neighborhood of Liberdade. I always visit these neighborhoods when I go to Sau Paolo.
