

JUANA AZURDUY

Juana Azurduy de Padilla (July 12, 1780 – May 25, 1862) was a guerrilla military leader from Chuquisaca, Viceroyalty of the Río de la Plata (now Sucre, Bolivia). She fought for Bolivian independence alongside her husband, Manuel Ascencio Padilla. She was strong and the military leader of the indigenous people of Alto Peru.

She grew up in Chuquisaca and at the age of 12 she joined a convent to become a nun. She is then expelled at the age of 17 because she rebelled too often. She marries Manuel Ascencio Padilla in 1805, a man who shares her love of the indigenous populations in Bolivia. She spoke Spanish and two South American languages: Quechua and Aymara.

Juana and Manuel had 5 children but two sons died of malaria.

Azurduy and her husband joined the Chuquisaca Revolution, In 1812 Padilla and Juana Azurduy served under General Manuel Belgrano,

During the Battle of La Laguna on November 14, 1816, Juana, who is expecting her fifth child, is injured, and her husband is killed.

After the death of Padilla, Juana stayed in the region of Salta where she continued to fight under the command of the Argentinian governor/guerrilla leader, General Martín Miguel de Güemes.

She died impoverished on May 25, 1862 at the age of 82, and is buried in a communal grave.
