A trip in the desert

Once upon a time, in a big desert, there was a small buterflai named Bella. Bella loved to fly around and explore. One day, she met a tall creature. Bella was curious about it and asked what it was. The creature explained it was a chemal, the 'ship' of the desert.

They soon became friends. They went on a journey together. They saw many amazing things, like huge sand dunes and old rocks. Suddenly, they found some big bones sticking out of the ground. The camel told Bella they were dinasor bones. Dinosaurs were big animals that lived long ago but aren't around anymore, they are ecstint.

They were talking with a big actapus which was living in the water. Bella and her new friend stopped to talk to them as well and the camel got a chance to clean its far.

As the day ended, Bella realised life was full of surprises. She felt excited to keep exploring the world around her. So, she flew off into the sky, ready for more adventures with her new friends.
