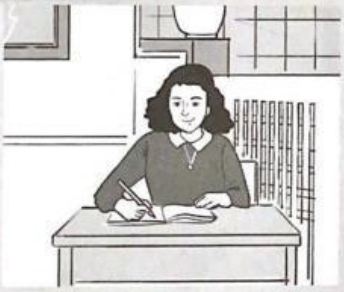
Reading

Read the extract of Anne Frank's diary.

In 1942, Anne Frank, a young writer in Holland, wrote a famous diary.

Friday, 12th June

I awoke at six o'clock, wasn't surprising as it was my birthday. I went to the dining room and where, Moortjie (the cat) welcomed me by rubbing against my legs. A little later, I went to Daddy and Mama and then to the living room to open my presents. I was over the moon because I also received the nicest present from my grandma. The next morning, I laid in the bathtub thinking how wonderful it would be if I had a dog like Rin Tin Tin too.



Sunday, 21st June

I had just finished the rest of my homework, the title of my essay 'It's an Emergency' caught my eye. I began thinking about the topic while chewing the tip of my fountain pen. I was trying to think of an emergency I had experienced. I thought and thought and suddenly I had an idea.

Sunday, 5th July

Father had been home a lot lately. He began to talk about going into hiding. We may have to evacuate our home soon if we did not want our belongings to be seized by the Germans. I was worried and terrified but father calmed me down. " Don't you worry. We'll take care of everything. Just enjoy your carefree life while you can."
