There wouldn't be so much pollution if more people used eco-friendly products.

GRAMMAR APPENDIX >> page 141

TIP

When we use the verb be after the word if in the second conditional, it always takes the form of were.

If Philip were here, he would agree.

If I were you, I would pick up that rubbish.

- 6 Complete the sentences with the verbs in brackets. Use the Second Conditional.

1. If we planted (plant) more forests, this would reduce (reduce) temperatures around the world.
2. If Scott really (want) to help, he (collect) the rubbish.
3. We (not create) so much rubbish if we (recycle) glass, paper and plastic.
4. If she (not be) so busy, she (do) more to save the environment.
5. We (reduce) pollution if we (not use) our cars so much.
6. If I (be) you, I (buy) more eco-friendly products.
