INSECT'S NEST

When it came and built the frame
on the wall,
briskly I bruised it
by a finger.
Twice it came again
I ignored it then.
Now on the wall it has a shelter
at the back of my computer;
a frail one inch hollow tube
upside open downside closed clipped to the wall.
It's a tiny wasp
may be with family it lives;
they come and go.

Ain't all the great constructions
like insect's nest
brittle and fragile
sure to go
today or tomorrow
measured by time?
Why bother about any mark made of lime?
