Natural Disasters in Ecuador

There are different types of natural disasters that occur in Ecuador: one is an (3)_____. This happens when the plates of the earth move against each other. Hundreds of them have been recorded in Ecuador. The strongest one in the country that has been measured was on December 12, 1979. It happened in the Pacific Ocean on the border between Ecuador and Colombia and measured 8.2 on the Richter scale. It caused a (4)_____, which is another type of natural disaster. It is a long high wave that can cause a lot of destruction.

Volcanic (2)_____s are another type of natural disaster. In Ecuador, including the Galapagos Islands, 27 potentially active volcanoes have been counted. The Cotopaxi, Reventador, Cayambe, and Tungurahua are some of the most famous. Volcanoes can be active, dormant (not active but may be in the future), or extinct (has not erupted in over 10,000 years). The state of Ecuador's volcanoes has been monitored for decades.

(1)_____s are also a natural disaster that occur in Ecuador. During the past few years, more and more have been registered, especially during the summer months of June, July, and August in the highlands. Many acres of land have been burned. When the weather is dry and warm, they are more likely to occur. We have to be careful because, with these conditions, fires can spread quickly and destroy a lot of land.

4. LANGUAGE THROUGH THE ARTS

Select the visual representation that best fits to the description of the Pachamama given in the text. (2 marks.)

The Pachamama is usually translated into English as "Mother Earth", although the more literal translation would be "World Mother". She is an Andean indigenous goddess. She is worshipped in the region of Tawantinsuyu, the former Incan Empire, which now includes the Andean regions of Ecuador, Bolivia, Chile, Peru, and northern Argentina.

In Incan mythology, she presides over planting and harvesting crops and can cause earthquakes. She is also the goddess of fertility. In the Quechua cosmivision, the four principles – Water, Earth, Sun, and Moon – come from her. She is the mother of the Sun god Inti, and the Moon goddess Mama Killa. She is offered many sacrifices, especially animals like llamas and alpacas. Rituals to honor her are celebrated all year, but especially in August, which is the coldest month of the year in the southern Andes.

With the arrival of the Spaniards, in some regions of the Andes, the Pachamama was replaced by the Virgin Mary. But those who believe in the Pachamama can maintain a balanced, reciprocal relationship with her. It is said that if people treat the Pachamama well and offer her the best sacrifices, then she in return will give them a good harvest.
