EXTRA PRACRICE:

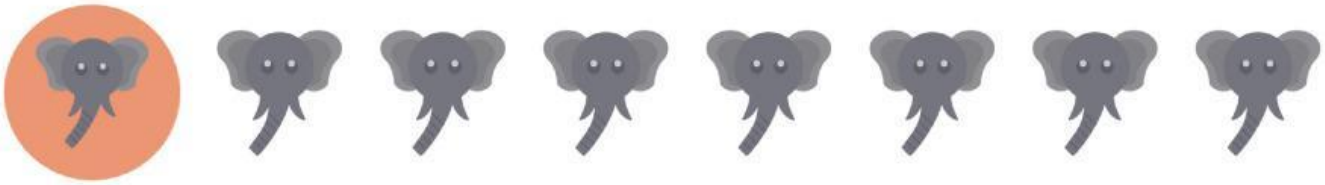

NUMBERS!

Write the numbers from the sentences:

1. There are one thousand six hundred and twelve ants in my garden!
2. There are seven thousand eight hundred fifty nine trees in the forest.
3. There are twenty six monkeys in the tree.
4. There are one hundred eighty two elephants in the safari.
5. There are two thousand four hundred sixty one bees in the beehive.
6. There are ten thousand seven hundred and thirteen flies in the yard.
7. There are five hundred and eleven flowers in the greenhouse.

Which one is different? Count them and write the ORDINAL NUMBER:

The first elephant is different.

The _____ turtle is different.

The _____ panda bear is different.

The _____ and the _____ lions are different.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Read this short text and write the numbers!

HOW MANY ANIMALS ARE THERE IN THE WILD?

There are only one thousand, eight hundred and sixty-four giant pandas in the wild today. In the ocean, there are twenty-five thousand blue whales. Only fifteen thousand jaguars are left in the wild. There are five thousand, four hundred and fifty-five black rhinos and four hundred and fifteen thousand elephants left in Africa. In Australia, there are one hundred thousand koalas and eight hundred and eighty mountain gorillas. In the north, there are three thousand, eight hundred and ninety tigers and twenty-five thousand polar bears!

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

LIVEWORKSHEETS