

97 The passive (2)

The beautiful castle at Chenonceaux has been owned by the Menier family since 1913.

1 Present perfect

We make the passive of the present perfect with has/have been + the past participle. The object of the active sentence becomes the subject of the passive sentence:

The Menier family have owned the castle since 1913. (active, castle = the object)

The castle has been owned by the Menier family since 1913. (passive, castle = the subject)

	ACTIVE	PASSIVE
present perfect	Scientists have discovered a new planet. They haven't fixed the computers yet. Have they emptied the bins?	A new planet has been discovered. The computers haven't been fixed yet. Have the bins been emptied?

2 Modal verbs

We make the passive form of modal verbs with the modal verb + be + past participle:

ACTIVE	PASSIVE
You can wash this shirt at 40 degrees.	This shirt can be washed at 40 degrees.
You must switch off mobile phones.	Mobile phones must be switched off.
They will fix the TV tomorrow.	The TV will be fixed tomorrow.
You should not wash this dress.	This dress should not be washed.
They had to delay the flight.	The flight had to be delayed.

We often use modal passives for written instructions and rules:

Answers must be written in ink.

Mobile phones cannot be used during the flight.

Don't use to after can, must, will or should in active or passive sentences:

~~X All the questions must to be answered.~~

✓ All the questions must be answered.
