

Will vs. Be Going To

Will

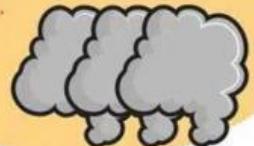

- Express future actions decided at the moment of speaking (Immediate Decisions)
I'll have salad now.
- Express a prediction based on personal opinions or experiences (Predictions without Evidence)
I think United will win the game.
- A future fact
The sun will rise tomorrow.
- A promise
I promise I won't tell anyone you broke the glass.
- An offer
I'll take you to the airport tomorrow.
- A threat
I'll tell your parents what you did.
- A refusal
No, I won't cook your dinner, you can cook it yourself.

Be Going To

- Express future plans decided before the moment of speaking (Prior Plans)
I'm going to visit my aunt next Friday.
- Express a prediction based on present evidence (Predictions with Evidence)
Look at those black clouds. It is going to rain.
- Something is about to happen
Get back! The bomb is going to explode.

→ Both Will and Be Going to can be used for making future predictions without having a real difference in meaning.

*I think it will be foggy tomorrow.
= I think it is going to be foggy tomorrow.*

Going to for predictions

But I'm going to talk about another aspect or another use of going to, which is to talk about predictions in the future. And perhaps we can divide the use of going to talk about predictions into two areas. First of all, there are general predictions. In the future,

💡 I believe there are going to be cars that can fly.

But here we can use will as well, it's really interchangeable. That means that we can use one or the other - will or going to in the future,

- ✓ I believe there will be cars that can fly.
- ✓ I think it's going to rain next week, or, I think it will rain next week

There's another use of going to which is more specific. And where we can't usually use will. And this is when we have some evidence in front of us, which gives us information about what is going to happen. So that's what it is - evidence, it's information. And we can see it or we can hear it, or we have that information

Pictures for predictions with 'going to' or 'will'.

Let's analyze the pictures above

1. So in the first photo, you can see a picture of a pregnant woman, so the prediction is quite straightforward, isn't it? And the prediction is that,
 - ✓ she's going to have a baby.
2. The next picture is a picture of a woman in a spacesuit. So she's an astronaut. And if we make a prediction about this woman dressed up like that, well, it's quite straightforward again, isn't it? We can see that
 - ✓ she's going to get into a space shuttle and fly into space.
3. The next one we can see is a gentleman chopping onions on a chopping board. So presumably, he's going to make a meal.
 - ✓ He's going to make a meal.
4. The next one is, well, it's a dark sky. The clouds are very dark or black even. So we can make a prediction about the weather.
 - ✓ Look at those clouds. It's going to rain.
5. There's a woman there. She seems to have broken down on the road. But she's a very capable woman. She's opened the bonnet of the car, and she's going to fix the car.
 - ✓ She's going to fix it.
6. Perhaps we can't even see the plane. But maybe if we are somewhere, perhaps in the airport or near the airport, and we can hear the roar of the engines. Well, perhaps we can also make the prediction. Can you hear that? That's a plane, it's going to land. so you don't have to see it. You can hear it as well.

7. There are a lot of plastic bottles and plastic things all over the beach. But we can see some people while they're already picking up that rubbish and putting it all into bags. If we make a prediction, we can say that
 - ✓ they're going to clean up the beach.

WILL

Questions

Just like with other modal verbs, we change the order of the SUBJECT and WILL to make it a question.

+ Affirmative: You will tell us the truth.

? Question: Will you tell us the truth?

Yes, I will. ✓

Yes, ~~I~~. ✗

No, I won't.

We don't use a contraction with affirmative short answers.

+ Affirmative: He will visit us.

? Question: Will he visit us? Yes, he will.

? Question: When will he visit us?

On Friday.

= He will visit us on Friday.
