IV. READING COMPREHENSIONA.

Dear Febby,

There were many things that happened last week. I can't wait to tell you about them. So, I'm writing you this email. Do you still remember my wishy-washy and ambitious, French friend, Celina? I told you a lot about her in my email last week. After days of being unsure, she quit the school band. She got bored, she said. She is not into drama either. She finally decided to join our school science club. Don't be surprised. Although she's not good at science, with her strong will, I think she will be okay. Now, it's about last night's show. The first graders of our school performed an interesting play. It was about a goddess turning into a beautiful tree to protect human beings from evils. As a whole, the play was awesome. And, you know what? The script was written by Emir, an Egyptian-first-grade student. Isn't it amazing? What a talented boy. Say, have I told you about Pablo, my new Italian classmate? I guess, I haven't. He is good looking. But, I don't think I can get along well with him. He is too fussy for a boy though he is not a Virgo. Actually we were born under the same zodiac sign. But Pablo is not sensitive like other Pisces are. I'll tell more about him in my next email. That's it for now. Tell me about your class project in your reply, OK?

Love,
Kartika

B.

Dear Cathy,

I'm writing this letter out of desperation. It seems that nobody understands me. I can't ask my best friend for advise because he has his own problems at the moment. I've been thinking of writing you a letter for weeks. But, I just couldn't find the perfect time to start pouring my feelings. So, here goes. My family, my friends, and even my music teacher think that I'm good at singing. They say that I will make a very good singer. I do like singing. I even join the school choir, as the leading singer. But, that's it. Singing is only a hobby to me. On the other hand, my parents think that being a singer can be a promising career. For your information, my parents are both famous recording artists. They have proven that singers with successful albums can have a prosperous life. Money is not really a problem for them. So, a month ago, they made me register to the best music course in town to prepare for the coming teenage singing competition. Not to disappoint them, I, obediently, attended the class. But, it was all against my will. Can't they just feel what I feel? I don't want to be a singer. I'm only twelve. Should I think about a career, already? I want to have fun. I want to sing whenever and wherever I want. What should I do?

Desperado
