Schools in Malaysia

A school is a vital place for children to gain knowledge. There are many types of schools in Malaysia. There are kindergarten, primary, and secondary schools.

SK Jalan Air Panas in Kuala Lumpur is one of the examples of a kindergarten and primary level in the same building. There are two levels in the kindergarten, Pra Kancil and Pra Lestari. The interesting fact of this school is, it has a farm called 'city farm'. The farm is designed for the pupils to have a hands on experience on how to plant vegetables and take care of the plants.

The Malay College Kuala Kangsar (MCKK) is the school for boys aged 13 to 17 years old. The students must have excellent results to get a place here. The students here are also great at playing rugby. Since 2011, they have been holding the MCKK Premier 7s, the tournament between the Premier and International School Rugby Seven teams. The objective of this sport is to create sportsmanship among the students.

Sekolah Kurang Murid (SKM) or Under-enrolled School is another type of school in Malaysia. The school is called SKM as the enrollment of the pupils are fewer than 150. SKM is usually located in rural areas.
